

CNPF Donates 1 Million Packs of Assorted Canned Goods and Milk

CENTURY PACIFIC FOOD, INC.

Century Pacific Food, Inc. (CNPF), the country's biggest canned food maker, has announced it will be providing aid and one million food packs to Filipinos amid the COVID-19 outbreak.

CNPF, as part of its "Food, Health, and Hope" program, is pledging to donate one million assorted packs of ulam and fortified milk through the National Government and partner local government units. The food packs will be distributed nationwide, targeting communities severely impacted by COVID-19 cases to bring nourishment to those who need it most.

As the virus continues to affect even more lives, CNPF is also providing its employees care packages and financial aid, especially to its workers who continuously ensure that CNPF's products are always available.

“At this time when COVID-19 threatens our health and our lives, we will make every effort to help those greatly affected by this pandemic, to make sure our consumers have enough CNPF products to see them through this crisis, and give security to our employees who work hard to make all of these happen. Together we can beat COVID-19,” says CNPF executive vice president and chief operating officer Greg Banzon.

CNPF products include Century Tuna, Argentina, 555, Swift, Birch Tree, Angel, Blue Bay, Wow, Fresca Tuna, Lucky 7, Shanghai Luncheon Meat, Home Pride, Hunt's, and Coco Mama.
